When you take a holiday - what does it mean to you? For many of us it is about embracing a break from normality to recharge and refresh. This can also mean foregoing the cooking for the week and indulging in fresh, gourmet local produce.

To enjoy the great outdoors in style and take a break from the cooking, look no further than Longlands in Devon. As if it didn't already offer enough in terms of style and comfort with its five luxury safari lodges overlooking the North Devon coast, the owner Bella Given and her manager Pam are also happy to provide delicious food for their guests. They have a Larder Menu full of tempting meals for breakfast, lunch and suppers to enjoy as a family on the deck or by romantic candlelight in the lodge or even on a barbeque platform above the lodge.

"WOULD HIGHLY RECOMMEND BELLA'S HOME COOKING - THE TAGINE WAS LOVELY."

Rick - Sept 2013

Allow yourself to be seduced by freshly baked croissants, pain au raisin, chocolate twists and baguettes. Savour the taste of the Best British Pasty winner of 2012. Try award-winning local whortleberry jam and for your evening meal choose from a tempting menu including: mouth-watering chilli; aromatic curry; lovely lasagne; hearty cottage pie and stew or fresh pasta and salmon. And if none of that gets your tastebuds tingling you can collect a flavoursome barbeque basket to cook on your Kadai in your personal elevated barby area. Finally, to finish off your perfect day you can satiate your sweet tooth with a range of creamy and delicious desserts - after all isn't that what holidays are about? Just think French patisserie tarts, chocolate torte, baked vanilla cheesecake or locally made award-winning ice creams.
